MAN DIED AFTER SITTING ON RAIL

By Dave Speck

dave.speck@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to a former Muswell Hill schoolboy and talented sportsman who died after being electrocuted on a Tube track on the Northern line.

George Dicker, 26, a former pupil at Fortismere School, in Tetherdown, and nearby Tetherdown Primary, was killed after he sat on a "live rail" containing a DC current of 630 volts.

Former school friends and fellow players at Highgate Cricket and Lawn Tennis Club, off Park Road, Hornsey, have paid tribute on Facebook.

One schoolfriend said of his sporting ability: "Whatever he turned his attention to he would devote himself to it, and as result would be among the best, but not once did he ever rub faces in his talent."

Another friend said George loved climbing things including, on one occasion, the side of a ferry in the middle of the Channel. He also once ran the entire length of Midhurst Avenue, Muswell Hill, along the rooftops, said the friend.

An inquest heard last week how George was hit by a train following his death and had to be identified from his fingerprints.

He suffered from schizophrenia and was paranoid about voices coming from the TV. He had taken an overdose of anti-psychotic medication the week before his death, although he had said afterwards this had been an attention-seeking act rather than a suicide attempt.

Despite the inquest finding that his death was "accidental," his sister-in-law Juliet Holton will be raising money for the charity Papyrus, which prevents suicide in young people when she runs the Brighton Marathon in George's memory next year.

George's mother Genevieve Wilcox said more than £1,500 had been raised at his funeral for the charity Go Provenance, which provides holidays for people with learning disabilities/difficulties and autism.

She said her mind and body had "gone into lockdown" following the tragedy, which occurred after George was captured on CCTV venturing on to the overland tracks near his flat in Woodside Park Road, Whetstone, at 9pm on May 9. His body was found in the early hours of the following day.

Mrs Wilcox said: "He'll be remembered by many people as a happy, cheeky, shy boy and I am glad if that helps them. It helps me, too."

Pudsey joins Spurs stars for a training ground kickabout

"ON me 'ead, Ted!"

Spurs players had been careful to avoid ending up on the injury list after splitting their sides laughing after Pudsey the Bear joined them in a training ground kickabout.

Tottenham captain and goalkeeper Hugo Lloris and midfield stars Christian Eriksen and Eric Dier were left more doubled-up than dazed by the footballing skills of BBC TV's Children in Need mascot.

The familiar cuddly bear with the bandana over one eye was at Tottenham Hotspur's training centre in Whitewebbs Lane, Enfield, to help publicise this year's appeal for the charity, which raises funds for disabled and disadvantaged children.

The Spurs team are also encouraging fans to get involved with the Do Your Thing fundraising campaign for the charity.

There are plenty of ways to "do your thing" and raise funds for BBC Children in Need.

Police appeal after mob attacks driver

POLICE are appealing for witnesses and information after a 72-year-old man was assaulted when an angry mob of demonstrators surrounded his car during a political street march through Haringey.

The victim was attacked and the windows of his vehicle smashed as he tried to drive slowly through the approaching protesters, who had been marching along Green Lanes on Sunday, November 6.

They held the march to campaign against the Turkish government's arrest of pro-Kurdish opposition MPs.

The victim was found in his car suffering from head injuries at the junction of Green Lanes and Hermitage Road at 4.40pm and was taken by ambulance to hospital, where he was treated for his injuries before being discharged the next day.

Anyone with information is being asked to contact police on 020 3276 3075 or via 101. Alternatively, they can call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Scheme will help to avert homelessness

A PILOT scheme has been launched aimed at preventing Haringey residents losing the roof over their heads by identifying those at risk of homelessness much earlier.

Housing charity Shelter has teamed up with Haringey Council to help residents struggling to avoid ending up on the streets or in emergency accommodation by intervening early to avert them being made homeless in the first place. A specialist from the charity will be available at the Marcus Garvey Library, in Phillip Lane, Tottenham, to offer free housing advice.

Commuter concern at timetable change plan

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

COMMUTERS in Enfield have launched a petition against timetable changes which would see their train service dramatically cut at peak times.

Grange Park residents are furious over Great Northern's proposals to slash the number of trains by a third during the morning rush hour.

Nicola Jefferson, from Grange Park, who started the petition, said: "I work in Victoria and use that service every day – along with lots of others.

"Not a lot of people know about these proposals, so we have launched the petition to give people a voice and to raise awareness."

Grange Park station is between Winchmore Hill and Enfield Chase stations on the Great Northern line and – if the changes are approved – it would have a reduced peak hour service from 2018.

Mrs Jefferson added: "It doesn't seem logical to reduce the number of trains in areas where there has been a huge increase in the number of commuters.

"We are asking that they increase the number of trains in the mornings."

According to National Rail, journeys at Grange Park have risen from 182,000 in 2004 to 405,000 last year.

Govia Thameslink Railway, which operates Great Northern, is having a timetable shake-up to "improve services" from Moorgate to Gordon Hill on the Hertford North loop.

The company said that even though it was suggesting a morning peak hour reduction, there would be more trains to Grange Park throughout the day and on Saturdays.

Great Northern spokesman Roger Perkins said: "This proposal for the morning peak was based on our understanding of passenger demand and the need to spread train loadings out across services that have different station stopping patterns.

Busy: The number of trains stopping at Grange Park station during the rush hour would be cut by a third under the proposals

"It was also suggested as a way to help introduce the overall increase of trains into and out of Moorgate at the very busiest times of the day that allows us to run a third more trains on the Hertford loop and to reduce journey times for those travelling from north of Gordon Hill – and also to ensure that these services do not get too overcrowded.

"However, the consultation is just that – a consultation – and we will be reviewing everything people are telling us.

"We want our passengers to help us shape their future train service which we intend to improve for as many people as possible."

Police probe shooting of 22-year-old

A 22-YEAR-OLD man was gunned down on an Edmonton street in what is believed to have been a drive-by shooting.

Armed police from the Met Police's Trident firearms team, which deals with gang-related gun crime attended the incident outside a parade of shops in Mottingham Road at 5pm last Tuesday.

The victim was discovered with a gunshot wound to his leg. He was taken by ambulance to the Royal London Hospital, in east London. His injuries were described by police as not life-threatening.

A neighbour who lives close to the scene of the shooting, who didn't want to be named, said: "I heard that two people on motorbikes drove up and aimed shots at somebody. We heard that he was walking along the parade."

Police have arrested three people in connection with the incident. Two of them, both 18, were arrested on suspicion of possessing an offensive weapon and have been bailed to return to Wood Green police station on December 20.

Police are seeking two other men, aged 19 and 20, in relation to an offence of grievous bodily harm with intent. Witnesses or anyone with information are being asked to call 101 or contact Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Police launch their Xmas tree appeal

A PLEA to provide Enfield's 352 children in care with a present to unwrap on Christmas Day was made by the borough's cops this week as the Metropolitan Police launched its annual Xmas Tree appeal.

Enfield's borough commander Detective Chief Superintendent Iain Raphael urged residents to make a difference by getting involved and donating or pledging a gift for a looked-after child.

He helped launch the borough's appeal at Enfield police station, in Baker Street, where a decorated Christmas tree in the reception area is the drop-off point for the public's donated gifts.

Residents can also drop a gift, big or small, into Edmonton police station, in Fore Street.

"We only launched the appeal last Tuesday and already it has proven a success," said Mr Raphael. "It has my wholehearted support."

His colleague Jacqui Penn, Enfield police's safer schools sergeant, said police had been bowled over by the kindness and generosity of the community in previous years.

Residents can also pledge cash donations, instead of presents, by visiting the Met's JustGiving page at <https://www.justgiving.com/fundraising/metxmastree> – or fill in a form online to indicate how many gifts they would like to donate by visiting www.met.police.uk/christmastreet

Big dreams: John Amaechi with Kingsmead students

'Aim high,' Amaechi urges youngsters'

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

STANDING six foot, nine inches tall in his stockinged feet, former star of American basketball John Amaechi is a towering presence.

And the first black British player to have a successful career in the sport in the US, as well as the first to openly admit he is gay, made a big impression when he visited an Enfield school last week to give sixth-formers a motivational talk.

The students at Kingsmead secondary school, in Southbury Road, listened intently as the 45-year-old – who retired from the NBA (National Basketball Association) in 2003, having played two seasons with Florida team Orlando Magic, turning down a reputed $20million offer to join Los Angeles Lakers – spoke about the key qualities to "achieve great things".

Since leaving the sport he has trained as a psychologist and offers performance coaching and mentoring, as well as basketball training to hopeful youngsters.

His visit last Wednesday was just hours after the US presidential election result and he started his talk by describing it as a "terrible day".

"I suddenly realised at three o'clock this morning that the world got more hostile," he said.

"The most powerful man in America says he needs to build a wall to keep the scary brown people out."

Mr Amaechi asked students to raise a hand if they aspired to be something "big" – and rows of them shot up in the air.

But success, he said, didn't come without hard graft.

"There is a fee to be paid for greatness – a key to a door if you want something remarkable – you need focus, effort and execution," he explained.

He provided students with inspirational slogans for them to achieve their potential when they leave school.

"If what you want is at the top – everyday, every moment is a decision to step up or take a step down," he said.

He admitted that those who were "ruthless" in their pursuit of success might not achieve what they really want.

"Make sure you get success in the right way," he advised.

Speaking about the fame of being a highly paid basketball star and the decision to turn down the $20m Lakers move, he said: "There's not a day goes by where I don't think about Los Angeles, sunshine and the money, but I'm a man of principle and there's nobody who can doubt I'm a man of my word. And at some point that counts."

Sharing his sexuality with the public and coming out as gay after he had retired from the game was a decision he made after he had built up a high enough profile as a basketball player.

"I wanted to make sure that when I did come out it meant something. That was the goal," he added.

No shortage of Christmas cheer at big switch-on FAMILIES and shoppers will be full of Yuletide cheer when Santa switches on the Christmas lights at the Palace Gardens Shopping Centre, in Enfield Town, on Saturday.

The shopping complex in the heart of the town is staging a magical, fun-packed afternoon with special guest appearances and entertainment that will enthral children and put mum and dad in a festive mood.

Getting things started at 1pm will be the appearance of Catboy, Gekko and Owlette, from the smash-hit animated childrens' TV show PJ Masks, the plot of which revolves around three six-year-olds who possess superpowers linked to their pyjamas.

They will be appearing in their superhero costumes, not their jim-jams, and will be helping Santa turn on the Christmas lights at 4.45pm under a flurry of (fake) snow.

But before then children will be entranced by two beautiful and mischievous stilt-walking snow foxes called the Raiju.

There will be humour from Mr Scrooge and Mr Scratchit in their carol singing Christmas carriage and stunning close contact juggling from an Ice Maiden. Shoppers will also be able to take Elfie Selfies on a magic mirror and get a free print to take home.

At 4.30pm, Santa will lead the Christmas parade through Palace Gardens to the Christmas tree beside Costa, where the lights will be switched on.

Palace Gardens manager Paul Duke said: "We are gearing up to a busy Christmas launch on Saturday. PJ Masks will be really popular with youngsters and there's lots of other great entertainment for shoppers, too."

Salute to all those who will be

Paying tribute: Brian Wilson, from Southgate Royal British Legion, at the Armistice Day service in Broomfield Park, Palmers Green on Friday

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

OLD soldiers wore their campaign medals with pride as they marched through the streets of the borough during Sunday's Remembrance Day commemorations.

Crowds lined the routes as veterans took part in parades to honour those who lost their lives in military conflicts including both world wars.

A procession of ex-servicemen and women,

Respects: Michal Radaczynski, from the Enfield Sea Cadet Corps, at Chase Green

members of the Royal British Legion and air and sea cadets paraded to Chase Green war memorial where, following the playing of The Last Post and two minutes' silence, civic leaders, including Enfield mayor Bernadette Lappage and Enfield North MP Joan Ryan, laid wreaths.

Similar parades were held to the war memorial at Edmonton Green and by the Royal British Legion in Southgate.

An Armistice Day service held at the Garden of Remembrance in Broomfield Park, Palmers

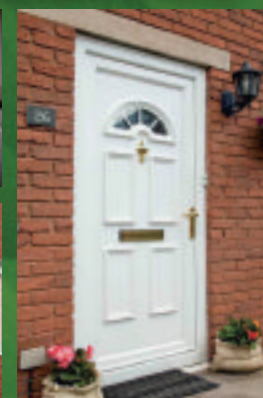

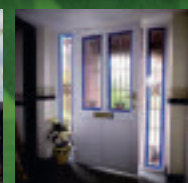

Green, on Friday and attended by Enfield and Southgate MP David Burrowes, included pupils from Bowes Primary School, in Bowes Road, New Southgate, and Broomfield Secondary School, in Wilmer Way, Arnos Grove, reading poems by World War I poets and others they had written themselves.

Brendan Farrell, chairman of the Enfield branch of the Royal British Legion said: "Generations of both young and old came together to remember those who served or gave their lives."

Criticism triggers rethink on library

Flawed: The proposals are being reconsidered

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FLAWED plans for the new Enfield Highway Library are being reconsidered following a wave of criticism about the design.

The detailed plans unveiled at a meeting of Enfield Council on Wednesday last week show that library provision at the Hertford Road site would be slashed by 75 per cent.

Instead the borough's main sexual health clinic will be sharing the ground floor with the adult and children's library.

And there will be a drug and alcohol treatment centre for young people on the first floor.

Enfield Highway Library was closed in May to be remodelled and to make way for a public health services department.

The changes were part of plans by the council to raise money by allowing other businesses and organisations to share library space and pay part of the leases in the wake of government cuts.

Shadow cabinet member for leisure and libraries Dogan Delman said: "The plans were so poorly thought through that I could not believe the council was bringing them forward."

"How can it be right that the size of the library is cut by 75 per cent with no justification? It's simply not good enough."

"There are also clear concerns that have to be answered about placing a sexual health clinic next to a children's library."

"People living in Enfield Highway deserve better."

The four biggest libraries – Enfield Town, Edmonton Green, Palmers Green and Ordnance Road community hub – will become "flagship libraries" and will extend their opening hours to seven days a week while undergoing redevelopments.

A spokesman for the council said: "No planning application has been received or withdrawn for Enfield Highway Library."

"The existing plans for Enfield Highway Library are being reconsidered and will be referred back to cabinet for a final decision."

Campaigners welcome mansion's inclusion in post-war drama

CAMPAIGNERS hoping to open a museum at Trent Park have welcomed the mansion's starring role in a new BBC TV drama from acclaimed director Stephen Poliakoff.

The Trent Park mansion features in the seven-part post-war thriller Close to the Enemy, which is centred on a scramble to recruit a top German scientist to help the RAF build the jet engine.

The first episode was screened last Thursday.

Mr Poliakoff said the initial idea for the series came "when I was finding out about all these scientists being grabbed literally off the streets of Germany on an industrial scale by the Allies at the end of the war."

He added: "Some were Nazis guilty of serious crimes, but they were given new identities by the Allies."

Trent Park is shown in the drama as a place where wartime secrets are concealed, although it was not used as a location.

Its real history as a listening post has only recently been revealed. Recording equipment was concealed in the rooms where top-ranking German prisoners of war were held.

It is rumoured that Hitler's one-time number two Rudolph Hess was held there – but government papers about his time in Britain remain classified.

The team behind a planned museum at the site as part of a proposed housing development said it could help put it on the map.

Jason Charalambous, who chairs the new Trent Park Museum Trust, said: "It absolutely helps having a director the calibre of Stephen Poliakoff feature Trent Park. It highlights the historical significance and raises people's awareness of the house."

He said he planned to get in touch with the award-winning director and invite him to learn more about the planned museum.

The drama is set in 1946 and stars Jim Sturgess as intelligence officer Callum Ferguson.

He has orders to persuade Dieter Koehler, played by August Diehl, to work for Britain.

However, Kathy Griffiths (Phoebe Fox), from the War

Crimes office, is keen to get her hands on files from Trent Park which could reveal that Mr Koehler might have a darker past.

She is fobbed off by Brigadier Wainwright (played by Robert Glenister), who is overseeing the wholesale destruction of cartloads of records at the mansion.

Enfield Council is hosting a public planning meeting at Highlands School, in Worlds End Lane, Winchmore Hill, at 7.30pm tomorrow (Thursday) for those attending to learn more about the Berkeley Homes' plan for the site.

All Saints offers cold comfort for homeless

By Clare Casey
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AS the temperature takes a nosedive rough sleepers can take shelter – by spending the night in church.

All Saints, in Church Street, Edmonton, is taking part in the Winter Night Shelter scheme to provide food and shelter for homeless people.

It is one of seven churches in the borough operating a shelter which will run for 13 weeks from January 4.

Parishioner and one of the two coordinators David Bayton said: “Last year was the first year we did it here and it was a real eye-opener. People were apprehensive about what it would involve.

“You tend to think the guests will be men in rags, who have drink problems, but they are people like you and me who have fallen on hard times, for whatever reason.

“We all became really close and by the end of the three months it was quite upsetting when it all came to an end.”

Rough sleepers have the option of going to a Crisis charity centre at Christmas, so the All Saints winter night shelter begins in January, when many are back on the streets.

Guests are referred by outside agencies – they can’t just turn up at the door – and must be free of drugs and drink when they are there.

The men and women are given a home-cooked evening meal and then chat with volunteers before turning in for the night on inflatable beds with clean sheets. The next morning there’s breakfast – things they don’t get sleeping on the streets.

Fellow co-ordinator Anne-Marie Sanderson said: “There’s so much stigma involved with homeless people. But a lot of the people here last year had jobs and were really struggling to survive after being kicked out of their private rented accommodation.

“It makes you realise it really can happen to anybody at any time.

“I have a support network and could move in with family or friends if I lost my house, but a lot of people don’t have that support.”

Guests are encouraged to save half their income, if they have jobs, while staying at the shelter and are helped by the Pillion Trust, an anti-poverty charity, which tries to break the cycle and get them back on their feet.

Anne-Marie added: “You can’t solve the problem, but by volunteering you are doing something tangible to help.

“A lot of the guests spend all day every day on the street and have nowhere to go.

“It must wear you down, never sleeping properly, always watching your back. So this is a slice of normality, a chat if they want to, some food and somewhere safe to sleep.”

Volunteers are split half and half between people who are parishioners and those who are not.

They set up the beds, do laundry, cook and spend time with guests – and the night shelter needs more of them.

Labour outcast gives charity his £609 allowance

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Enfield councillor who was expelled from the Labour Party following his second criminal conviction claims he is making amends by donating his allowance to charity.

Nesimi Erbil has pledged the £609 monthly allowance paid to each councillor to Citizens Advice Enfield, which offers free advice to the borough's residents on housing, employment and immigration issues.

The Lower Edmonton ward councillor said he would not resign, but would carry on as an independent member until his term comes to an end in May 2018.

Mr Erbil, 47, of Nightingale Road, Edmonton, joined the Labour Party as a teenager and has been a member for 30 years.

He said: "I have decided to give my money to the disabled people and poor children of Enfield.

"As a councillor, lots of my residents come to me with problems about their housing, jobs, debts. This charity in Ponders End is really good. It really helps people and that's why I am giving my money to them.

"I also hope it will be a signal to other councillors to do the same."

In September 2014, Mr Erbil received a four-week prison sentence suspended for a year at Southwark Crown Court for fraud after he was caught taking passengers across London, rather than in the four boroughs for which he was licensed.

Two months ago, he came under fire again after receiving a suspended six-week prison sentence at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court after he was convicted of a public order offence for allegedly swearing at an off-duty policeman who pulled him over for allegedly using a mobile phone while he was driving.

Expelled: Nesimi Erbil, who is sitting as an independent councillor after being expelled from the Labour Party

Terry Neville, the leader of the Tory group on the council, made renewed calls for Mr Erbil to resign.

He said: "Plainly, it does not matter what he does with the money. He is dishonest and not fit to stand as a councillor."

Mr Erbil's convictions do not warrant disqualification from office under UK law which only applies to those sentenced to three months or more in prison.

GPs' surgeries recognised for providing online data

A HEALTH watchdog has launched an award for doctors' surgeries in Enfield which provide useful healthcare information online while helping to save the NHS money.

Patient group Healthwatch Enfield has awarded its new quality standard to 35 surgeries which offer health information online to help patients save time and cut costs.

The service can help save up to £29 per patient if it can get key information online rather than contacting the surgery, according to NHS England figures, with online access costing just 8p per patient.

Healthwatch Enfield joined forces with surgeries and patients over the last two years to improve the online information about primary care services available in the borough.

The health group said that two years ago only two practices would have earned its quality mark.

Practices were encouraged to include details of out of hours care, complaints procedures and details about patient participation groups online.

The practice website must also be included on the NHS Choices listing and give links to online repeat prescription services and how to book an interpreter for patients. Over the last two years the number of practices with a website increased by a third and details about interpreters went up by 69 per cent. Volunteers did three audits of the websites over the last two years.

Healthwatch Enfield boss Patricia Mecinska said: "We are delighted by the response we received from the primary care providers to improve their online information provision."

She said it helped free up staff for more face-to-face contact with patients.

"If it wasn't for the commitment of the GP practices, Healthwatch Enfield would not be celebrating the launch of its quality standard," she added.

"We are hopeful that the relationships we have established with primary care providers will contribute to further improvements to make Enfield the best place for people to access services."

Emma Friddin, Healthwatch Enfield's policy, insight and research manager, said: "Online booking services are very beneficial and useful for patients."

Healthwatch Enfield is now working with 15 other practices to help them with their online information.

Columnist

Terry
NevilleEnfield Council
Conservative group leader

In my July article for this column, I said that our Brexit vote could turn out to be the Trump moment in the USA.

I dare say many readers tended to dismiss that, believing that it couldn't possibly happen – well, as we now know, it has, and I say again that politicians of all hues in the UK, both national and local, should take heed.

This result and Brexit were a backlash against elitist politics in which the so-called political class of whatever party somehow believed that once elected they could forget the electorate until the next time and do what they wanted to do.

Sadly, Enfield Council displays many of the features of this disconnect.

Here you have a Labour Party majority who were last Wednesday quite happy to vote down a motion which I had moved calling for Councillor Nesimi Erbil to resign following his third conviction in a year, despite his defiance. Does anyone seriously believe that he should continue in office?

At the same meeting we saw how Labour supported Councillor Katherine Chibah, who had attended only 37 per cent of the meetings she should have since May (and for which she receives a special and additional allowance of £8,600).

The "democratic deficit" in Enfield to which I've previously referred is another example of the same problem. The relentless attempts to deny the opposition the proper opportunity to question the administration is nothing short of a disgrace.

We need open and transparent government and that requires an effective opposition that is enabled to properly challenge the administration.

One per cent wage cap has cost nurses money

NURSES across London are calling on the Chancellor of the Exchequer to scrap the one per cent pay cap when he delivers his Autumn Statement on November 23.

The one per cent cap on pay increases for public sector workers has meant that some nurses have seen their pay fall by up to 14 per cent in real terms since 2010. In London, NHS trusts are facing a recruitment crisis and hospitals could soon lack the staff needed to provide safe patient care.

Nurses have told us they struggle to cope on their current pay levels and feel undervalued, which leads to low morale and staff leaving the profession for good. Unless the Chancellor takes urgent steps to ensure nursing pay reflects the complexity and value of the role, the nursing profession is being led into crisis. Members of the Royal College of Nursing are calling for the Chancellor to scrap the one per cent public sector pay cap for NHS staff, award NHS staff with an above-inflation pay increase and return to a UK-wide pay rate in the NHS.

If you would like to show your support for fair pay for nursing staff, visit www.rcn.org.uk/nursingcounts to find out what we are doing and to sign the petition on nursing pay.

Let's tell the Chancellor that this is his opportunity to show that the government really does value nurses.

Thousands of nursing staff across London are dedicated to caring for patients, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, whatever their illness or condition. Please show your support for us.

MP Burrowes should offer an explanation

DURING the week that the majority of unaccompanied children in Calais were at last moved to hopefully safer accommodation, the British government had little to be proud of.

Recently, ten Conservative MPs signed a letter criticising the government for not doing enough to help vulnerable child refugees in Calais. The letter described the "heartbreaking" death of a 14-year-old boy in the migrant camp and the "heartbreaking" scenes of children living alone in tents "at risk of losing their lives". The signatories urged the Home Secretary to do more to work with France to safeguard the rights of these children.

The ten signatories of this apparently humane letter contributed to the shameful defeat in April of the Labour Party amendment to the Immigration Bill 2016, tabled by Lord Dubs, which proposed to offer sanctuary to 3,000 unaccompanied children festering in camps in Europe. Records suggest that eight of the letter writers voted against the amendment and two failed to vote.

The argument that accepting children who have reached Europe would create a "pull factor" for more refugees is at best flimsy, and worst cruel. We would argue that in the same circumstances and when facing intolerable conditions, we too would sell our worldly goods and risk horrendous journeys in a bid to keep our children alive.

The Labour amendment was defeated by just 18 votes. The UK government's failure to intervene to protect vulnerable minors has predictably contributed to the deaths of two children and to the widely documented physical sexual and emotional abuse of hundreds of children who remained abandoned in The Jungle.

We would be very grateful to know what the government plans to do to redeem itself from this hypocritical position, and what is the Conservative Party going to do to improve its poor reputation on basic humanitarian compassion?

We call on our MP, David Burrowes, to explain publicly (in the Enfield papers) this contradictory and hypocritical position as we feel strongly that these views and actions are not in our name.

We also call on him to join the eight London councils calling on the Home Office to provide more financial support to ensure they can properly care for unaccompanied refugee children.

Hammersmith & Fulham is taking 15 unaccompanied children from the camp to be placed with existing foster families in the borough. How many children will Enfield be taking?

What a sorry state this building's in POOR old Cemetery House in Church Street, Edmonton. What a decrepit state it is now in – simply being allowed to rot and decay.

Rampant ivy is now claiming the roof and huge shrubs cover the lower windows.

It is a disgrace that such a handsome building, an historic feature of the Edmonton landscape in a beautiful setting, has been ignored and left to deteriorate to such an extent.

It is clear the council is happy to waste millions on cycle lanes that no-one wants but has no interest in preserving the borough's heritage.

It's quite right to keep protesting KARL Brown ("Is Cycle Enfield money well spent? Only time will tell, Advertiser, October 26) correctly says that in 2013 both the ruling Labour group and opposition Conservatives supported the case for drastic road narrowing that, Enfield Council has tried to convince us, will transform the health and well-being of the local community and regenerate our town centres.

However, the Conservatives subsequently saw sense and withdrew their support, but only in 2015, a full year after the local elections.

People also vote for candidates based on party manifestos covering not just one but a multitude of issues and in 2014, when the last elections took place, few people were aware of what was planned.

Mr Brown's claim that the electorate had a clear choice to reject the destruction of much of the borough's main transport arteries is pure fantasy.

Those opposed, are entirely within their rights to carry on protesting.

So thankful for wonderful NHS

RECENTLY, I was rushed to North Middlesex University Hospital with a heart condition.

I write this letter in praise of the exceptionally swift care which I received, particularly by Dr Florence Davenport and Dr Nicola West – very passionate and dedicated doctors.

I promised them that I would write to you and for a change offer a positive experience of our NHS.

It was also interesting that they discovered a rare condition which attracted younger students to visit and examine me.

Endoscopy facility opens at hospital

THOUSANDS more patients will receive endoscopic examinations for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer after a new facility was launched at Chase Farm Hospital.

The new service will be available for a year at the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, while the endoscopy facilities are refurbished at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

Endoscopy examination is a non-surgical procedure involving use of a flexible tube which has a light and camera on the end and allows a patient's digestive tract to be seen on a TV monitor.

The facility is also used for diagnosing and treating other gastro-intestinal diseases.

Patients will be seen in the Surgicentre at Chase Farm by a team of up to 30 doctors, nurses and staff.

About 7,500 endoscopy

Here to help: The endoscopy team from North Middlesex University Hospital who will work at Chase Farm Hospital examinations had been carried out at North Middlesex and it is hoped that the number will rise to 10,000 with the new service being offered at Chase Farm.

Claire Lloyd, senior project manager at North Middlesex University Hospital, said: "We will continue to see the most complex patients, suspect cancer patients and patients who need hospital transport at North Middlesex.

"However, apart from these, patients who live in north Enfield will benefit from having a service that is closer to their home."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

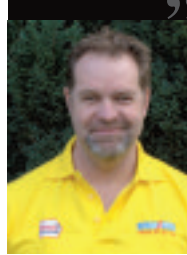

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Delight for primary school over reading test results

Celebrating: Headteacher Emma Breckenridge with some of the pupils who passed their phonics tests with flying colours

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A PRIMARY school is celebrating after being ranked in the top eight per cent nationally – for the second year in a row.

Kingfisher Hall Primary Academy, in The Ride, Ponders End, received a glowing letter of praise from the government minister for school standards Nick Gibb congratulating the school on exemplary results.

The school gained a 95 per cent pass rate for the statutory Year 1 phonics test – assessing the reading skills of children aged five and six.

The test involves pupils reading 40 words aloud to their teacher.

Half of the words on the test are from the dictionary and half are not, such as “strom”.

Mr Gibb said: “Your school is in the top eight per cent of all primary schools in the country.

“Thank you for your vital work in this area of a child’s early education and again congratulations to you and your staff for all you have achieved.”

Headteacher Emma Breckenridge said she was thrilled.

“Reading has a huge impact on children’s learning and development which is why early decoding skills are so critical,” she said. “As a school rated ‘outstanding’ by Ofsted we are always striving for excellence and we are therefore thrilled to get this national recognition again.”

Kingfisher Hall was opened in September 2012 – the same year the phonics test was introduced nationally – under the coalition government’s free school initiative by the Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust.

Quaker talk highlights battle against poverty

INNOVATIVE ways in which a faith-based charity is helping tackle poverty will be the subject of a talk in Winchmore Hill on Saturday morning.

The work carried out by Quaker Social Action will be discussed by director Judith Moran and fellow staff member Catherine Utley at the Friends Meeting House, in Church Hill.

Quaker Social Action campaigns for social change and has been offering practical help to the needy for more than 150 years.

Some of the approaches it uses include helping people manage money to avoid ending up in debt and action to help families on low incomes meet funeral costs.

Saturday's talk runs from 10.30am to 12.30pm. Refreshments will be provided.

Government urged to put money into train service

By Julia Gregory
julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE Chancellor is being urged to invest in the West Anglia rail line which runs through the eastern side of Enfield to help boost the economy by £15billion a year.

Enfield North MP Joan Ryan wants the government to give the green light to investment in the service – from Liverpool Street to Cambridge – which she said could “help Enfield thrive”.

Her calls come ahead of Philip Hammond’s first autumn statement next Wednesday (November 23).

She wants the government to invest in the multi-million-pound transport scheme.

She told a Westminster debate that she backed the business case for more cash to improve capacity and performance on the line serving passengers along the London-Standed-Cambridge corridor.

The West Anglia Taskforce estimated that upgrading the section of track which runs from Coppermill Junction, in Walthamstow, through Enfield – including stations at Ponders End, Brimsdown and Enfield Lock – towards Broxbourne with four tracks instead of two could boost the region’s economy by £15bn a year.

Ms Ryan told MPs on Tuesday

last week: “Many of my constituents who use the Abellio Greater Anglia train service, on the West Anglia main line, face cancellations, delays and poor service on a daily basis.”

She said: “Four tracking, as a precursor to Crossrail 2, will radically improve their experience of the railways and provide an essential upgrade to our borough’s infrastructure.”

Ms Ryan predicted the investment would give Enfield a boost, explaining: “New businesses will be attracted to the borough and those businesses which are already here will want to stay and grow, and it will provide a fantastic opportunity to unlock housing and business potential.”

The taskforce, which includes Enfield Council leader Doug Taylor, wants to see faster journey times on routes to Cambridge and Standed, four tracks by the mid-2020s and improved services.

It set out its vision in its final report entitled A Strong Case for Investment in Rail to Support Growth, published last month.

It also wants investment in the routes as “a vital precursor” to Crossrail 2, which would link Wimbledon, in south London, with Tottenham and New Southgate stations by 2033.

Police seek suspect after bus sex attacks

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE have issued an image of a man they want to question in connection with a string of sexual assaults on women bus passengers – one of them on the Edmonton stretch of the 149 bus route

Detectives believe the suspect, pictured right, is responsible for carrying out at least five indecent assaults on women over a six-month period between March and September this year and have appealed for anyone who recognises him or knows his whereabouts to contact them.

His first victim had just left work on March 11 at 6pm having boarded a route 341 bus at Kings Cross headed towards Tottenham.

During the journey the suspect, who was sitting next to her, touched her leg.

When the bus reached Bruce Grove, Tottenham, she switched to a 149 bound for Fore Street, Edmonton, and noticed that the man had followed her on board.

Concerned, she rang her boyfriend to ask him to meet her. The suspect appeared to overhear the conversation and got off at the next stop.

Four months later the same man is suspected of committing a similar sexual assault on a 27-year-old woman on the N18 nightbus route between Trafalgar Square and Harrow, in north-west London, and three further separate assaults between July and September on women, aged 21, 27, and 31, in Brent, in north-west London, on the 226 bus route.

The man is described as being of Middle Eastern appearance, aged between 30 to 35 years old, of slim build and about 5ft 7ins tall.

Anyone who recognises the man in the CCTV image or has information that could help the police investigation is being asked to contact Detective Constable Teresa Moore on 07920 590 261, or, to remain anonymous, to call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111

NEWS

Joined-up thinking as new group gets down to business

Headquarters: Enfield Business Centre, in Ponders End

By Clare Casey
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW Enfield-based business organisation is being launched bringing together entrepreneurs across four boroughs.

Enterprise Enfield has joined with the North London Chamber of Commerce and formed a new organisation – the North London Chamber of Commerce and Enterprise.

Based at Enfield Business Centre, in Hertford Road, Ponders End, the NLCCE represents and promotes businesses across the boroughs of Enfield, Barnet, Haringey and Waltham Forest.

Entrepreneurs are being urged to sign up and become members so they can benefit from business advice, networking events, newsletters and an online directory.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for economic regeneration and business Alan Sitkin said: "Enterprise Enfield has a long history of helping local entrepreneurs make a great success of their businesses.

"Leveraging North London Chamber resources is sure to enhance opportunities for local business people and we're delighted to see this happen."

Membership also brings discounts for meeting rooms and business skills seminars at Enterprise Enfield's Let's Go! Business Hub, based at Enfield Business Centre.

The North London Chamber of Commerce and Enterprise will be launched at the business centre on Thursday, November 24.

Despina Johnson, chief executive of NLCCE and Enterprise Enfield, said: "Enterprise Enfield is delighted to have this opportunity to help facilitate the growth and success of even more fantastic businesses in north London – something which we have been doing for more than 30 years."

Businesses interested in joining the NLCCE should call 020 8443 5457 or visit www.nlcce.co.uk

Charity's trip to gardens

CAPEL Manor College was the venue for the annual outing of the Southgate Homebound and Disabled Association.

The charity, now in its 59th year, organises transport for elderly and disabled people who find it hard to get out and runs monthly club nights, annual trips and parties.

Members were given a tour of the gardens and animal enclosures at Capel Manor, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, followed by afternoon tea in the 18th-century manor house.

Chairman Ian Woodall said: "The annual outing is a big part of our calendar and the members are always excited to visit somewhere new."

"In the past, we've been on boat trips and to cathedrals. This year we decided to take in the college's beautiful gardens.

"Many of our members either require a wheelchair or can only walk short distances, but we were lucky to have a number of volunteers who ensured that everyone enjoyed the afternoon."

The monthly meetings are held at Christ Church, near The Green, Southgate, and entertainment includes singing, music groups and talks.

Membership is free and is open to anyone from the Southgate area.

The organisation relies on support from volunteers and welcomes anyone who can spare a couple of hours on a Friday evening.

Mr Woodall added: "We exist through donations of time and money and we all want to make a difference to others who will benefit."

To sign up as a member or volunteer, contact Mr Woodall on 07505 120516.

MODELS took to the catwalk last week – but it wasn't in New York, Paris or Milan...

Volunteers and patients from Enfield's Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, in Lancaster Road, took to the stage in their own fashion show to raise much-needed funds.

A total of 40 women, men and children donned trendy outfits and accessories at Enfield Baptist Church, in Cecil Road, provided by Pearsons department store, in Enfield Town.

Pearsons sponsored the evening event last Thursday and the models wore a range of clothes and accessories from the store's new winter collection.

They were also treated to a special makeover and had their hair styled by Hudson & Kemp hairdressers, in Chase Side, Enfield.

"They closed the hairdressers in the afternoon, so they could style the models' hair for the show, and made them feel very special," she explained.

About 200 guests attended the event and were treated to a champagne and canape reception before they picked up tips from the show for their own winter wardrobe.

Former patient at the centre Sarah Wackett, 46, who is now in remission, provided entertainment with her jazz quintet band – MOJO 5.

Lesa said the fashion show brought volunteers and patients together.

She said: "They made some fantastic friends and it was great watching them up and down the cat walk, growing in confidence and having fun."

A total of £4,500 was raised from raffle and tickets sales and will help the charity, which relies on voluntary donations, to provide its services in the community.

"For members who come to the centre, taking part in the fashion show was their way of giving back – everyone donated a lot of their time," added Lesa.

"It was lovely," said Lesa Barker, fundraising manager at Nightingale Cancer Support Centre.

In the swing of it:
Steve Taylor at his kit with his Big Band eXpLoSiOn

All in the spirit of jazz

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

DIFFERENT strokes for ace drummer Steve Taylor could have seen him follow another career path as a tap dancer.

The drumming phenomenon – who performs with his 16-piece Steve Taylor Big Band eXpLoSiOn at Enfield's Dugdale Centre on Thursday, November 24 – used to be a champion tap dancer as a child, he revealed to online jazz bible All About Jazz. Both activities require rhythm and coordination to produce a percussive sound, but it was always going to be the drums for Steve, who from the age of six was raised on the jazz greats Buddy Rich and Louie Bellson.

The band, one of the hottest on the London jazz scene, features in the Dugdale's regular Ziggy's World Jazz Club evening. Steve has worked with jazz singer Ian Shaw, acclaimed composer and musician Nitin Sawhey and even Hollywood movie legend Kevin Spacey.

With his virtuoso drumming, sublime vocals from Josie Frater, award-winning saxophonists Vasilis Xenopoulos and Phil Meadows, plus a cutting-edge horn crew, the band performs an electrifying mix of contemporary swing jazz, Latin and funk fusion composed and arranged by the beat master himself.

Feeling the Mozart effect

Mozart by Candlelight
Wylliotts Theatre, November 13

THE world would be a better place if more people listened to Mozart.

It's testament to the enduring popularity of his music that, two-and-a-quarter centuries after his death at the age of 35, and on a chilly Sunday night in November, Wylliotts was not far from being sold out for this canter through some of his most famous works.

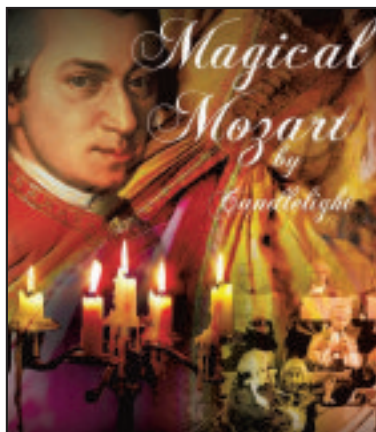

The European Baroque Ensemble, clad in period costume complete with wigs, joined forces with a trio of soloists to perform works from operas including The Marriage of Figaro, The Magic Flute, Don Giovanni, and Così Fan Tutti. Purists might perhaps sniff at the concept of a Mozart greatest hits package, but the result was a two-hour show in which all performers amply showcased their abundant talents.

It was impossible not to be won over by charming renditions of Papageno's Aria, or Sull'aria...che soave zeffiretto, for example, both delivered with gusto and humour, while the well-marshalled musicians kept things moving at a rattling pace, enabling us to marvel at the exquisite complexity of his musical arrangements.

Amadeus himself would surely have approved.

Delightfully Turkish

THE GANNETS

Ada Restaurant and Meze Bar, Silver Street, Enfield Town

ADA, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, serves up generous portions of dishes from eastern Turkey.

There is a wide range of vegetarian, grilled fish and meats to choose from.

And each dish consists of fresh ingredients – such as homemade hummus and flatbread.

After more than 30 years of working at restaurants across London, owner and chef Ali Aksu has perfected his own marinades and sauces to create authentic Mediterranean flavours.

A vibrant atmosphere greeted us as we walked through the door on a Friday evening at 7pm – a mixture of diners, with large parties, groups and couples.

The focus is on the freshness of the food, but equally pleasing to the eye is the setting – well-lit with pictures of Turkish landscapes dotted around the restaurant, with wooden flooring. Not too overdone, but pleasant.

The waiters are friendly and attentive.

We began our meal by tucking into deep-fried calamari (squid) and mucver – deep-fried fritters made from courgettes, feta cheese, dill, herbs and flour.

The starters were a good combination – the calamari was surprisingly tender and the fritters were packed full of flavour.

For the main course, we were recommended the chef's special for two, which we shared – and a generous platter was presented before us.

It consisted of two lamb chops, a skewer of chicken and lamb shish, chicken wings and an adana kebab (minced lamb).

Cooked on the charcoal grill, the meat was flavoursome and succulent.

A fresh tomato and cucumber medley with a house salad accompanied the dish – as well as cous cous, rice and homemade chilli sauce, cacik (cucumber, yoghurt and herb dip), hummus and flat bread.

It was an absolute feast and very good value for money – a generous platter for any meat lover but enough to feed three people, so make sure you visit with a hearty appetite!

POTTERED HISTORY

FANTASTIC BEASTS AND WHERE TO FIND THEM (12A, 133 mins)

THE pixie dust may have settled on Harry Potter's cataclysmic battle with Lord Voldemort, but author J.K. Rowling isn't ready to cast an Evanesco vanishing spell on her world of warring wizards just yet.

Inspired by a faux textbook, written in 2001 to benefit Comic Relief, Fantastic Beasts And Where To Find Them is a rollicking spin-off set several decades before the escapades of the boy wizard. It's also the first film penned for the screen by Rowling and is a surprisingly bleak affair about tolerance, prejudice and integration that strikes an ominous chord following the racially divisive rhetoric of the US presidential election.

"I know you have rather backwards laws about relations with non-magic people," magizoologist Newt Scamander (Eddie Redmayne) tells an American counterpart.

Tensions between No-Majs (the clunky Americanism for Muggles) and spell-casting folk underpin every scene of David Yates' visually sumptuous picture.

As origin stories go, Fantastic Beasts... is a crowd-pleasing doozy. Zealots called the Second Salemers, led by Mary Lou Barebone (Samantha Morton) and her adopted son Credence (Ezra Miller), preach hell and damnation in 1926 New York following a reign of terror perpetrated by dark wizard Gellert Grindelwald (Johnny Depp).

Newt arrives in the Big Apple at the height of this paranoia, carrying an enchanted suitcase with hidden pocket dimensions full of endangered critters.

A No-Maj called Jacob Kowalski (Dan Fogler) accidentally picks up Newt's luggage and releases otherworldly species in breach of the Statute of Secrecy.

Beasties go on the rampage and Newt attempts to recapture them aided by Jacob, a former Auror called Porentina Goldstein (Katherine Waterston) and her mind-reading sister Queenie (Alison Sudol).

Percival Graves (Colin Farrell), director of magical security, is convinced that Newt's illegally imported creatures are responsible for a brutal attack. He declares war on the fugitives in a city where dark forces are gathering.

Redmayne is a charmingly ill-at-ease hero, whose unerring dedication to creatures in his care draws fond parallels with Hagrid.

The beasts are a menagerie of the weird and wondrous, including an emotionally needy woodland biped called a Bowtruckle and a long-snouted burrowing mammal called a Niffler.

CHANGING FACE OF ESTATE AGENCY

Malcolm Barnfield of Barnfields Estate Agents & Surveyors has been selling property in Enfield for 35 years. Before that he worked for 3 years as a property negotiator in his father's Estate Agency called Stephen Gracey in Palmers Green.

"In those days our property particulars did not have any photographs of the property just a typed description of the rooms, their sizes and the garden length.

When my brother and I opened Barnfields in 1981 I used to take one photograph of the outside of each property for sale and get the 'one hour' photo shop in Enfield Town to develop them. The photograph was stuck onto the typed description and then photocopied to provide as many copies as were required to post out to potential purchasers... We had to hand write all the envelopes and lick a lot of stamps!

The master copy with the photo was then placed in our window display (to be retrieved when further copies were required).

Fitted carpets were negotiable over and above the sale price of the house and if a purchaser refused to buy them a sale could fall through or the owner would rip out the carpets and take them with them, even if they were not suitable for their next home!

First time buyers had to save with a Building Society every month for at least a year before they were eligible for a mortgage and then they could only borrow 2½ times the higher annual income plus 1½ times the lower, which helped keep property prices at an affordable level...

Oh how times have changed!"

Preview the new collection of homes at Prime Place, Cheshunt on 19th November at newly-appointed selling agents Lanes' offices in Cheshunt

Surrounded by stunning Hertfordshire countryside, yet less than a 30-minute train ride from central London – the new homes at Prime Place, Cheshunt, a mix of two, three and four-bedroom family houses, together with a small number of two-bedroom apartments, are well worth a close look.

Prime Place has recently appointed Lanes as selling agents and, for those who want to find out more about the development ahead of the launch of the show homes in the New Year, Lanes is holding a preview event at its offices in Cheshunt on 19 November.

Guide starting prices for the new homes are circa £260,000 and Help to Buy is available on every home. Using this scheme, you only need a 5% deposit and the Government contributes a 20% loan that's interest-free for five years, leaving you to raise a mortgage for the remaining 75%.

Sue Gresswell, sales & marketing director at Prime Place, comments: "Cheshunt may not be as widely known as some of the commuter towns around London, but it's a fantastic option. It's quick to get into London and great value too, as Cheshunt is within the Oyster zone. We build our homes to a very high standard, so buyers can expect London standards of living but a more relaxed lifestyle."

At Prime Place, Cheshunt, the apartments are housed in two, three-storey apartment buildings. These are part of a brand new community which, when complete, will include two, three and four-bedroom houses, arranged around tree-lined avenues and boulevards. The development adjoins the playing fields of Cheshunt School and there's plenty of green space, including a picturesque crescent-shaped meadow close to the apartments.

Cleverly designed to maximise light and space, the apartments and houses all benefit from a good specification, which includes modern kitchens fitted with the integrated appliances; wood-effect flooring throughout the living areas; oversized entrance doors; fully-tiled bathrooms and fitted wardrobes to the master bedroom – all included as standard.

Parking is also provided for every home.

Prime Place, Cheshunt couldn't be better connected. Cheshunt Station is just a mile away and provides regular services into London Liverpool Street. Junction 25 of the M25 is within a five-minute drive and Stansted Airport is 27 miles away.

The homes are close to Cheshunt Park; Broxbourne Woods, a National Nature Reserve; and Lee Valley Regional Park, which follows the course of the river for 26 miles and is a magnet for walks, cycle rides and river sports.

Prospective buyers can view the plans and find out more about Prime Place, Cheshunt at the preview event at Lanes' offices in Cheshunt on Saturday 19 November, from 10am to 5pm.

For an invitation to the event, please call 01992 663890. Alternatively, to register an interest in the homes please visit www.primeplace.co.uk.

Gripping ride (but no legroom)

By Simon Thompson

CURRENTLY sitting at the top of the DS Automobile line-up, the new DS 3 Performance Black is the French manufacturer's attempt at a hot hatch.

It shares the same 1.6-litre turbocharged petrol engine and limited slip-differential as the Peugeot 208 GTI, yet is dressed up in a chintzier frock. With the matte black paint and gold wing mirrors that featured on our test car, the DS Performance Black is a fairly mean-looking thing.

Adding to its sporting credentials are massively flared wheel arches, an aggressive-looking body kit, black 18-inch alloy wheels and twin exhaust pipes. The car also featured the optional DS Performance Exterior Graphic Kit for added visual impact.

Altogether, these styling features make for a car that is certainly imposing to look at. To some, they might make the DS 3 Performance look rather tacky and over-styled, but then again, isn't that part of the fun of owning a hot hatchback?

In the cabin, the Performance is much the same as the regular DS 3, save for the massive bucket seats.

While these certainly look the part on a car that has been designed to be an engaging and exciting driving machine, in reality they don't quite provide the right amount of support.

This means you're thrown around a bit when pushing the car through corners.

DS has also thrown in some mock carbon-fibre panelling on the steering wheel and doors, while the dash was the same gold colour as our test car's wing mirrors. Again, this might come across as bad taste to some, but it seemed to fit the character of the DS 3 Performance rather well.

The car's appearance certainly attracts a fair deal of attention from other motorists on the road. If you're after a hot hatch that likes to shout about the fact it has a more power than its regular siblings, you'll likely find the DS 3 Performance a more appealing prospect than some of its more understated rivals.

For a hot hatch that's packing a considerable 207bhp under the hood, the DS 3 Performance Black doesn't feel as fast as its numbers might suggest. Sure it's quick, but the manner in which it picks up speed isn't terribly exciting – especially when you compare it to the rather savage nature of the Peugeot 208 GTI by Peugeot Sport, with which it shares its 1.6-litre THP engine. Another sticking point is the fact the Peugeot sounds fantastic, while the DS 3 just doesn't.

Thanks to the absence of a proper roof, the DS 3 Cabrio isn't terribly composed over bumpier surfaces either. It has a slight tendency to shudder and groan over any piece of road that isn't absolutely smooth, which are unfortunately few and far between in the UK.

Sadly, this doesn't end the DS 3's list of woes. In what seems to be a common factor of all DS cars, the driving position is incredibly awkward. It seems that the French manufacturer is determined to build cars for people who have incredibly long arms and stumps for legs.

The good news is that the DS 3 is pretty sweet through the corners. There is an abundance of grip and the Torsen limited-slip differential works well to keep you on the road and helps to minimise understeer that can often plague cars of this nature.

With an asking price of £25,295, the DS 3 Performance Black Cabrio isn't exactly the cheapest hot hatch. A top-of-the-line Ford Fiesta ST is significantly cheaper, costing £20,495. While it may not be as powerful as the DS 3, it's one of the best hot hatchbacks currently on the market. A Fiesta ST200, which is priced similarly to the hard-top DS 3 Performance Black, could make for an even more tempting choice.

Time to fall in love with print again...

There is growing evidence to suggest that brands and businesses have gone too far in throwing the newspaper out with the bathwater in the rush for digital and online advertising.

Newspapers still have a powerful role to play in any mixed media campaign and the need to work together is paramount.

You can have the best of both worlds with a traditional print campaign allied to a digital presence plus online links to thousands of readers and potential new customers.

We have an exciting opportunity for an experienced Account Manager to join London's leading rent guarantee company. You will have a minimum of 2 years experience working in the property industry. You will be responsible for procuring new properties from agents & landlords & managing these accounts. This is a field sales role & will involve extensive travelling in London & the South East establishing relationships with estate agents & landlords. You will be a self-motivated, enthusiastic, entrepreneurial individual who is target & results focussed, you will also be competitive, well presented & will relish the challenge of developing & nurturing new business relationships. If this is you we want to hear from you today!

Property Manager/Team Leader - £40-£45K plus benefits

We are currently looking for a Property Manager & Team Lead to oversee our in-house maintenance and admin function, based at our head office in North London. The successful candidate will be responsible for delivering and managing service excellence and positive outcomes for our clients; providing leadership and coaching to team members and assistants as well as capturing and sharing knowledge and driving innovation in service. You will need to have proven experience in managing teams as well as extensive maintenance/property management experience and be very commercially minded.

Maintenance Administrator - £16-£20K plus benefits

An experienced Maintenance Administrator is required to join our team. You will manage a portfolio of properties and prioritise maintenance jobs and allocate to the maintenance team and ensure that key company targets are met. You will have an excellent telephone manner and previous experience in a similar role is preferable.

Dispatch Rider/ Property Inspector

Managing properties all over London, we want motorbike/scooter riders to assist in the management of these properties. Duties will include visiting the properties, carrying out inspections, meeting tenants, tenant inductions and other general admin duties. Suitable applicants will be over 21 and with either a full motorbike licence or a CBT and be an experienced and confident motorbike/scooter rider. Bikes are provided for use during business hours. Salary negotiable.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

WALTHAM CROSS

From coats to cameras, cosmetics to Christmas gifts, at Yodel, our people handle, load and deliver it all – right from our warehouse here in Waltham Cross. But in the busy run-up to Christmas, we need some extra hands to help us out.

You could join us as a neighbourhood courier, where you'll use your own car to drop off parcels and packages to people in the area around where you live. Or, if you're a van driver, you could join us in a full-time job, delivering parcels to homes and businesses right across Waltham Cross and neighbouring towns.

Your care and attention will help us to deliver thousands of parcels every day, on time and in great condition.

DIER'S DELIGHT AT FULL-BACKS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ERIC DIER has hailed Tottenham Hotspur full-backs Kyle Walker and Danny Rose after they played key roles in helping England beat Scotland in their World Cup qualifier at Wembley Stadium.

Dier joined his two Spurs teammates in the starting line-up for Friday's clash, which saw Walker and Rose catch the eye with their attacking play – providing the crosses for England's first and second goals respectively in a 3-0 win.

But Dier insisted he was not surprised by their displays, believing it was simply a reward for the hard work they put in at club level.

"They are unbelievable physically, no-one can match them," he said. "I'm really happy for them and being involved in the goals, that's great for them as well. They deserve it because they work so hard at Spurs to be at that level."

"They then show the same form in international football as well, which is great for Tottenham and England. I'm delighted for them, they were fantastic."

"I'd heard a lot about England games against Scotland, and I really enjoyed it. I thought it was a good performance."

"We didn't start well at the beginning of the first half or the second half, but we got into it both times and after that we were good."

"It was an important win, especially with only one qualifier this break and after drawing the last game. Everyone is happy."

Meanwhile, striker Harry Kane was released back to Tottenham from the England squad ahead of last night's friendly with Spain to work on his fitness.

Kane returned from a seven-week

Full of praise: Eric Dier has hailed the displays of Spurs full-backs Kyle Walker and Danny Rose injury lay-off for Spurs' Premier League match against Arsenal earlier this month and lasted for more than 70 minutes before being taken off.

However, with the striker still not fully match fit, he was an unused substitute against Scotland and England interim manager Gareth Southgate felt that Kane would be best served by returning to his club side to help him return to full fitness.

Southgate said: "Harry reported to us last week having not played a full game for some seven weeks, but Tottenham were more than happy for him to come with us."

"It was never really my intention to start him in a game and I think it's important he gets a different training programme to what we've had over the last couple of days."

"Once we'd assessed our injury status and the fact that we were fine and covered for the Spain game, the sessions that we're doing aren't what Harry needs at this time after having had such a long injury lay-off."

Tottenham Hotspur return to action after the international break by hosting West Ham United on Saturday, looking to end a run of four successive draws in the Premier League.

Borough seal win against strugglers

HARINGEY BOROUGH climbed up into 14th place in the Ryman League Division One North table after grinding out a 1-0 victory at home to basement side Wroxham on Saturday.

Ali Setirekli's goal on 37 minutes was enough to give the hosts all three points, but they will feel somewhat frustrated that they failed to take advantage of numerous opportunities to win by a far greater margin.

Borough were utterly dominant from the start of the match, but were continually thwarted by a string of fine saves from visiting keeper Elliot Pride, while Adrian Markus had two goals ruled out for offside.

But the pressure eventually told as the hosts did break the deadlock eight minutes before the interval courtesy of a fine strike from Setirekli which flew into the net.

The second half proved to be far more even as Wroxham – having ridden their luck prior to the interval – came into the match much more.

The visitors lacked any sort of cutting edge in attack though as they were unable to seriously test Borough keeper Harry Palmer and it was the hosts who continued to create the better chances.

Markus was denied by the post, while Setirekli had a goal disallowed for a foul on the keeper and Daniel Francis fired wide when it seemed easier to score.

However, the missed chances were not to prove costly for the hosts as they were able to hold on for the win.

Haringey Borough face trips to Bury Town on Saturday (3pm) and Ware on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Youngsters produce fine displays at table tennis festival

FOUR youngsters from Haringey made their mark in the second annual Youth Club table tennis Festival in Tower Hamlets.

The quartet, who are all members of Bruce Grove Youth Centre, were among 73 young people who took part in the event, which was run by London Youth in partnership with Table Tennis England and the Jack Petchey Foundation.

Brianna Coleman led the way by emerging victorious in the girls' under-16 event, overcoming competitors from Tower Hamlets and Lambeth to take top spot.

"I have been playing table tennis for three years and I play both at my school and my youth club," she said. "I started because I saw other people playing table tennis and wanted to have a go. It's really fun and I like the agility that's needed at a higher level."

"I really like playing in competitions and testing my skill. I also won this competition last year and was happy I could win again."

Kechell Dalton was runner-up in the girls' under-15 category after taking on youngsters from Tower Hamlets and Southwark.

She said: "This is my second competition as I also played in the London Youth Games representing Haringey. It has been interesting to play against other youth clubs and has been really fun."

"I started playing table tennis at my primary school two years ago at our summer fair, where the school had a table for people to play on."

"I then started to play for fun. I really enjoyed the event, but found the final difficult."

I want to come back next year and try again."

There was also a second-placed finish from Allen Urbanwicz in the boys' under-16 event after he took on competitors from Camden and Newham.

"I love the game and get a lot out of competing," he said. "Next time I want to win."

And Richard Hung was third in the boys' under-14 event following his matches against players from Tower Hamlets.

"This is my second competition," he said.

"Last year I came sixth so I am really happy to come third this time and get a medal."

"I find table tennis really enjoyable and fun and I was inspired by watching professionals play in international matches. Next year I would really like to get to the final."
